The New Tax Bill

The following extracts from the introductory speech of the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means Mr Schenck, gives a fair general idea of the objects of the New Tax Bill and of its various provisions and proposed changes.

It is a bill to reduce into one Act and to amend the laws relating to internal taxes. When the Committee on Ways and Means at this session entered first on the task of considering what legislation might be required in relation to internal taxes, it was with the expectation—an expectation shared in probably, by most of the members around me—that their attention and their labor might be confined to changes of some parts of the law to meet generally the altered condition of things in the country and particularly to satisfy the reasonable desire of the people. Some of the industrial interests had been heavily burdened under the necessities of a state of war from which a portion, at least, of those burdens might now be lifted. Added to this was the conviction of an evident need for more stringent measures and laws [illegible] prevent or punish the [illegible] steadily increasing growth and boldness of fraud, the practices of tax payers and officials, practices which were threatening if unchecked to rob the Government of a large proportion of the revenue, legitimately accruing, and needed for its uses. It was apparent, however, that our work, to be thorough, could not stop with such partial accomplishment.

The present laws relating to internal revenue are embraced in twenty five different Acts spreading through the statute book from August, 1861, to the present session. These Acts in succession enlarge, restrict, modify, repeal and not unfrequently, repeat or contradict much of what goes before, so that the whole mass of them, if not chaotic, are, at least, in many respects anything but clear and easy to be understood by the people who are to obey or the officers who are to enforce them. The obstructions are only in a degree removed by interpretations and regulations. I beg to be understood, in speaking thus, as not meaning to imply any disparagement of the work of any former Committee or former Congress. Internal taxation was an experiment, a necessity to which we were driven, and it was not to be expected that a new system should be built up and adapted to the business and habits of our country and people hastily and under the pressure of circumstances without its being in many respects imperfect in form, if not crude in substance. So we found it.

I do not for a moment pretend to claim perfection for the bill before you, and by which we have sought to remedy some of these defects and evils in the existing law, but we have done the best we could with these views of what it was our duty to attempt.

The Internal Revenue laws prepared at the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue contain 131 pages of closely printed matter. The pamphlet edition of the bill we present shows 124 pages, but allowing for the differences in the width of the print, the contents perhaps are about the same; this is owing to the fact that while we have codified and very much compressed and abridged what is now in the law, we have also added a great number of new provisions that seemed necessary for effective legislation. The key note of one great change, which we propose and which pervades and distinguishes our bill throughout, is to be found in the first and immediately succeeding sections. We propose it will be seen, to make the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue an independent department. By this I do not mean a department with an officer at its head who is to be expected under the usage of the Government to be invited to the Cabinet councils of the President, but one rather like the Department of Agriculture with a chief, styled not a Secretary, but a Commissioner. We desire to give this independent character to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in order not only to mark and secure his own responsibility and accountability for the conduct and management of all affairs in the Department, but to enable him under the Constitution, as head of a Department, to appoint all of his subordinates, for whom and whose conduct also we intend he shall be in the fullest degree responsible.

The Committee had settled down on the conclusion that the true way to get the taxes collected was to impose responsibility on one officer strongly empowered and armed for the purpose, and to hold him to the strictest account for everything he shall do under such circumstances that all public observations and all watchfulness of the law may be concentrated upon him. He admitted that great power was conferred by the bill on an executive officer, not much greater, however, than is now exercised by the Collector of Customs at New York. It was great power to be conferred on any officer and yet it would be found that in the different provisions of the bill the Committee had taken great care to hold the Commissioner to the closest accountability.

The bill proposed to abolish the system of tobacco and whisky inspectors paid by the distillers and manufacturers, and to have their duty performed by storekeepers, to be paid by the Government. The saving in the aggregate cost of collection, he estimated at $689,970.

The committee had matured a system of supervision. Instead of special agents, the Committee propose that in every judicial district there should be a supervisor of internal revenue. But, instead of being a wandering officer, he should be a responsible man, properly paid by the Government, having a fixed office, and whose duty it should be to supervise, look after, attend to, and report upon the conduct of all local revenue officers within the District. Even he, however, would have to refer the case for final action to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and thus the system of responsibility from the head of the Department downward was to be maintained.

As to manufactures, the policy of the Committee accorded with the general policy indicated by Congress in the passage of the act of March 31 last, and with the fourth resolution in the Chicago platform. That act, however, exempted bread stuffs and manufactured lumber, but he gave his friends from the Northwest notice that this bill omitted that exemption.

All manufactures were to be treated not with reference to the particular things produced, but with reference to the capital which they employ, what they do with it, and how much they succeed in producing and disposing of.

The Committee had made the tax on sales as to the great body of manufactures, one fifth of one per cent.

The Committee had exempted from the general tax the one fifth of one per cent on manufactures of certain luxuries as for instance the manufacture of fine confectionery. Those were charged one sixteenth of one per cent on all over $5,000.

Ornamental jewelry the Committee charged one per cent on all over $1,000, and on gold and silver wares, fire arms and pianos. The Committee had charged one half of one per cent on billiard tables and playing cards. The Committee had charged one per cent on the amount manufactured. While they adopted the general system of placing a tax on sales of manufactures very low, certain articles used only by those who are wealthy ought to bear a heavier tax, and on those articles the Committee had placed more than on the ordinary manufactures of the country.

In regard to special tax, the special tax on hotels was graduated so that the large hotels like the Astor House, the Fifth Avenue and Willard's Hotels should be taxed much larger in proportion than small hotels.

In regard to foreign brokers, he said there is a class of gentlemen who come from Europe and who take rooms at the Astor House, Metropolitan Hotel or some other hotel in New York or Philadelphia, who have no office where they can be taxed, but who with samples negotiate for the sales of millions of property. These men have never paid any tax upon their sales, and we have therefore provided as a measure of protection to the regular dealers of the country that while a commercial broker, known as such and responsible as such, pay his twenty two dollars special tax, one of these foreign commercial brokers who keeps no office or place of business and who escapes payment on their sales shall pay for their special tax $5,000, and shall be put into the Penitentiary if they are found exercising their vocation without paying the tax. We have provided that retailers of distilled spirits shall be classified, and shall pay according to the amount of their business $25, $50, $100, $200 and $1,000 severally for their license, and we have defined a retail dealer to be not one who sells a certain amount of liquor, but who sells liquor in quantities less than one quart and who sells to be drunk on the premises.

Wholesale liquor dealers pay at this time one tenth of one per cent on all sales over $50,000. We propose that wholesale liquor dealers shall pay 2½ per cent, twenty five times as much, and shall pay on all sales over $2,000 instead of over $50,000. This source will yield $24,000,000, judging from the statistics of the trade.

I come then to the special tax imposed on the distiller himself. We have made it $100 and $1 on each barrel produced. We have also added this system of taxation of sales. We have also added to that a tax upon capacity. We provide that there shall be $3 a day paid on the capacity of each distillery that mashes and ferments 100 bushels mashed and fermented. Now all this is part of a system, a part of the machinery in reference to the revenue to be derived from distilled spirits, and although it is found under different heads, and in different parts of the bill, it must be all in some degree connected together.

We have retained the tax of $2 a gallon as a direct tax on whisky, but I take occasion to say here now, that it is not the expectation, I believe, even of the Committee that that amount of direct tax will be retained by the House, or by Congress. If we had let it be known four months ago that whisky was to be taxed only one dollar or seventy five cents a gallon, we would have lost about four millions of dollars of revenue.

I do not know whether Congress will agree to the reduction. I for one have come very reluctantly to the conclusion that it should be done. We must not be controlled, we must not be governed by the whisky men, who are this moment swarming in the city, especially anxious to know whether the tax is going to be kept at such a rate as that they can continue operations. Step by step therefore, by degrees, I have brought myself to come to the conclusion that the direct tax on distilled spirits ought to be put down to something like seventy five cents per gallon, the reason why I would be willing to agree to seventy five cents is that from the examination of many taxes and the investigation of the whole subject, I believe that seventy five cents is about the standard at which the tax can be collected and which will make it impossible for illicit distillation to be carried on with profit.

Illicit distilleries cannot carry on their business in concealed places, in cellars and garrets in Chicago and Philadelphia, the two great points at which most of the enormous rascality is carried on, with any advantage at all. If we can beat them in the market, (and yet I was unwilling to come down to such a low standard of direct taxation without having put into this bill much by which we can collect a very considerable additional tax from other sources,) and thus by dividing the points where all temptation is felt, put it on a footing that nothing could be made to any very great extent in defrauding the Government on any particular point.

From a number of calculations that I have made, I can come to no conclusion but that we shall get at least seventy millions out of whisky in the coming year, instead of thirteen millions to which we are now reduced.

In reference to the income tax, it was to be retained at five per cent., but salaries from the Government on which no allowance was made for house rent, bad debts, &c., were henceforth to be accounted for as other income, instead of having the tax deducted on their being paid.

In reference to the tax on railroads—particularly horse railroads—they were no longer to be allowed under the revenue law, to exact from their passengers that tax, or rather eight times that tax, but would have to apply for relief to the local or municipal Government.

In reference to mineral oil, it would have to be put on the footing of general manufactures, or the present tax of one tenth of one per [illegible] would have to be dispensed with altogether.

As to tobacco, the Committee had made a great many amendments in regard to the collection of the tax—it had endeavored to make the tax rigorous, certain of execution, and to have the collection made through the medium of stamps. While the country had been astounded with the enormous frauds committed in evading the tax on whisky, it had not been much behind with tobacco, though he confessed that whisky was a little ahead in the race of rascality. Instead of the three classes of taxation—40, 30 and 15 cents a pound—the Committee now recommend only two classes at 40 and 16 cents.

The Committee also provided that smoking and chewing tobacco should be put in small packages and tax paid by stamps.

As to cigars, the Committee had thought of doubling the present tax of $5 per thousand, but that perhaps, would not be insisted upon. His own opinion was that they ought to reduce the tariff on cigars, as not affording the protection intended to home manufactures. The tax on imported cigars now average $76 per thousand, and the consequence was that smuggling was carried on to an alarming extent.

In reference to the financial condition of the country, he was one of those who believed that no matter how much they might dispute about the changing of the public debt from one form of public security to another, the amount of the volume of the currency to be kept up, &c., there was, after all, but one way in which the debt of the country was to be paid, and that was by working it out. Industry, commerce, the productions of labor and of the soil were eventually to pay the debt. The Committee had endeavored through his system of internal taxation to keep in view the cardinal principles that taxes must be equalized as far as possible. What, said he, is the condition of the country now, at the close of a long and expensive war? A condition which ought to astonish, and I believe does astonish the world, a condition which does astonish me, which will astonish any one who looks carefully into the facts and figures. If anything can teach an American to admire this great country, and to wonder at its enormous resources, it will be to go through such an investigation as I have attempted. I propose to conclude what I shall say to-day by an exposition of figures, showing the present condition of the country. I hope that, if by this exposition I shall show that we are capable of sustaining the country through its burdens, and of holding high its credit and advancing its prosperity the good condition of the country will not be made the occasion of extravagance in appropriation. It is not only necessary to raise revenue, but to be economical in the use of it.

Thirty-six Separate Platforms.

A New York dispatch of July 5th gives the following in regard to the Copperhead Convention:

A Committee on Resolutions met Saturday evening and had precipitated at once upon it a mass of platform literature, equal to an ordinary octavo volume. Not less than thirty six separate and distinct platforms were presented. One from every member of the committee, besides several volunteer ones from other lights of the Democracy, including an elaborate production from Robert J Walker. The committee felt unequal to the task of comprehending this mass of Democratic doctrine in the rough, and so sent all the manuscripts to the printers. They cannot get them back till half past eight to-morrow, when the committee meets again and begins its real labors. The resolutions submitted range over the whole extent of political faith, from repudiation to gold payment, from white man's government to negro suffrage, from recognition of Southern reconstruction to revolution. The committee, however has had two informal meetings, at which the discussion developed a much more temperate and conciliatory tone than had been expected. The general disposition was to adopt glittering generalities and deal in double faced phrases, which any candidate could accept and construe as supporting his own views.

The population of Russia has doubled in sixty two years, and at this rate will amount to one hundred and forty millions by the year 1900. The average length of life is thirty-two years of men and thirty-one of women. Russia has more young persons under the age of twenty in proportion to her population, than any country in Europe, and less between the ages of twenty and sixty.

The Democratic National Convention and Mrs. Susan B Anthony

On the third day the Chairman said: I have here a memorial from the Woman's Suffrage Association, with the request that it be handed to the Committee of Resolutions. [Laughter, "Hear, hear," and cries of "Read."] I may mention that this document is signed by Susan B. Anthony. [Renewed cheers and laughter.]

The communication was then read as follows:

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA,
[illegible] PARK ROW, Room 20, N. Y., July 4.

To the President and Members of the National Democratic Convention—Gentlemen: I address you by letter to ask the privilege of appearing before you during the sitting of this Convention to demand the enfranchisement of the women of America, the only class of citizens wholly unrepresented in the Government, the only class (not guilty of crime) taxed without representation, tried without a jury of their peers, governed without their consent. And yet in this class are [illegible] many of your most noble, virtuous, law abiding citizens, who possess all the requisite qualifications of voters. Women have property and education. We are not "idiots, lunatics, paupers, criminals, rebels, nor do we "bet on elections." We lack, according to your Constitution, but one qualification—that of sex—which is insurmountable and therefore equivalent to a deprivation of the suffrage, in other words, the "tyranny of taxation without representation."

We desire to lay before you this violation of the great fundamental principles of our Government, for your serious consideration, knowing that minorities can be moved by principles as majorities are only by votes. Hence we look to you for the initiative step in the redress of our grievances.

The party in power have not only failed to [illegible] our innumerable petitions, asking the right of suffrage, poured into Congress and the State Legislatures, but they have submitted a proposition to the several States to insert the word "male" in the Federal Constitution, where it never has been, and thereby put up a new barrier against the enfranchisement of w[illegible]

This fresh insult to the women of the republic, who so bravely shared the dangers and [illegible] of the late war, has roused us to more [illegible] and persistent efforts to secure their rights, privileges and immunities that belong to every citizen [illegible] Government.

As you hold the Constitution of the [illegible] to be a sacred legacy to us and our children, [illegible] we ask you to save it from the desecration which deprives one-half of our citizens from the right of representation in the Government.

On this base proposition the [illegible] has [illegible] silent and indifferent. While the dominant party have with one hand lifted up two million [illegible] men and crowned them with the honored [illegible] of citizenship, with the other hand they have dethroned fifteen million white women—their own mothers and sisters, their own wives and daughters—and cast them under the heel of the [illegible] orders of manhood.

We appeal to you, not only [illegible] you, being in a minority, are in a position to [illegible] principles, but because you [illegible] the party [illegible] to extend the suffrage. It was the Democratic party that fought most valiantly for the removal of the "property qualification" [illegible] white men and [illegible] the [illegible] digger on a political level with the [illegible] lionaire. This one act of justice to working [illegible] has [illegible] your power, with but few interruptions from that time until the war. [illegible] you have an opportunity to confer a [illegible] on the women of the country and [illegible] lives of a new [illegible] that will [illegible] perpetuate your political power for [illegible] come.

While the first and highest motive [illegible] urge on you is the recognition in all [illegible] of the great principles of justice and equality that are the foundation of a republic [illegible] it is not unworthy to remind you that the [illegible] that takes the onward step will reap its just reward. It [illegible] to see that the tide of progress in all countries is [illegible] toward the enfranchisement of woman, and that this advanced step in civilization is destined to be taken in our day.

We conjure you, then, to turn from the [illegible] questions of the past to the vital questions of the hour. The brute form of slavery ended with the war. The black man is a soldier and [illegible] holds the bullet and the ballot in his own hand. Consider his case settled. Those [illegible] of self defense and self-protection [illegible] wrenched from him. Yours the [illegible] now to see that no new chains be forged by the [illegible] holders and monopolists for enslaving the labor of the country.

The late war, seemingly in the [illegible] of slavery, was fought by [illegible] hands for the larger liberties of the whole people. It was not a war between the North and South, for the [illegible] of class and caste knows neither latitude nor longitude. It was a war of ideas, of aristocracy and democracy, of capital and labor, the [illegible] that has convulsed the race through the ages and will continue to convulse future generations till [illegible] and equality shall reign upon the earth.

I desire, therefore, an opportunity to urge upon this Convention the wisdom of basing its platform upon universal suffrage as well as universal amnesty from Maine to California, and [illegible] take the first step toward a peaceful and [illegible] reconstruction.

In behalf of the Woman's Suffrage [illegible] of America. Respectfully yours,

General cheers and laughter followed the reading of the foregoing address, which was [illegible] to the Committee on Credentials.

A Revolutionary Candidate

On the 2d day of July, two days before the assembling of the National Democratic Convention, General Blair wrote a letter to Col Broadhead in which the following language was used

There is but one way to restore the government and the constitution, and that is for the President elect to declare the Reconstruction acts null and void compel the army to undo its usurpations at the South, disperse the carpet bag State governments, allow the white people to reorganize their governments and elect Senators and Representatives The House of Representatives will contain a majority of Democrats from the North, and they will admit the Representatives elected by the white people of the South I repeat that is the real and only question which we should allow to control us

We must restore the constitution before we can restore the finances, and to do this we must have a President who will execute the will of the people, by trampling into dust the usurpations of Congress, known as the Reconstruction Acts

I wish to stand before the convention on this issue, but it is one which embraces everything else that is of value in its large and comprehensive result It is the one thing that includes all that is worth a contest and without it there is nothing that gives dignity, honor or value to the struggle

Can we believe that the above words of Gen Blair meant anything but to assure the still discontented, seditious and revolutionary element in the South that in case of the election of the Democratic candidate for President there should be a forcible undoing of every thing which now exists as resulting from the rebellion and subsequent reconstruction? It was certainly intended to secure to himself all the representatives of that element who should appear with votes in the Convention, and it had that effect, It was a pledge that the Democratic candidate, if elected, would as President use force to wipe out the present recognized State governments in the South, and set up new ones It was a pledge to use force to turn the representatives and senators representing the reconstructed States, out of their seats and to install others chosen by the revolutionists. It was a pledge to disregard and trample "into the dust," the constitutional amendments, though they have in regular form been adopted by the people through their legislative assemblies, It was a pledge that the power of the Democratic administration should be devoted especially, and before all other objects, to the restoration to power in the state and general governments, of the Wade Hamptons and the Gen Forrests, who through some inscrutable Providence were permitted to outlive their attempt upon the life of the nation. It was a pledge to inaugurate another revolution and plunge the country again into the sea of blood whence it so lately emerged. The Wade Hamptons and the Gen. Forrests accepted it as such and voted for Blair. That the confederates who still cling to the "lost cause" and believe that it will yet triumph, understood Blair's letter as pledging all we have indicated above, is sufficiently shown by the declaration of Gov. Vance at the Richmond ratification meeting, that all that the soldiers of the Confederacy fought for would be won by a Democratic triumph next November, and by the exultant avowal of such men as Wise, that "secession still lives." The election of Seymour and Blair would verify the prediction of Vance and the avowal of Wise. The only way to a continuance of the peace we have won at such a fearful cost, is through the election of Grant and Colfax

SCARCITY OF LABORERS.—Notwithstanding the considerable influx of immigrants from the Western States, California is short of laborers The papers make frequent mention of the prompt manner in which the San Francisco Labor Exchange furnishes places and employment to the new arrivals, and still they come, and still the demand continues unsatisfied. In some sections of the State the farmers have been compelled to employ Chinamen to save their crops, notwithstanding the average wages are from two to three dollars per day, with board. A similar state of things exists in Oregon, though the scarcity may not be so marked. The railroad companies, east and west side, have all along offered fair wages for choppers and graders and have invariably, we believe, engaged all applicants, yet neither of the companies has ever been able to procure as many men as are wanted. The east side road has never had a force greater perhaps than one hundred and fifty men, including all the Chinese laborers; and the west side has never had to exceed about one hundred and twenty Either company could and would employ a greater number, if the men could be had The laborers are not in the country. Harvest is now with us and finds the State short handed. We believe that there is room in the Willamette valley for two or three thousand laborers more than we have, at fair, living wages.

The New York Post of July 7th characterized the National Democratic platform, then just adopted, as the embodied expression of "repudiation in every form except the open and manly one of direct refusal to pay the debt The bonds are to be taxed, in spite of the direct pledge in the act authorizing the loan that they should be free from taxation They are to be paid in irredeemable paper, in spite of the official pledge that they should be paid in coin"

However the financial plank in the platform may be construed by one class of Democratic politicians in one section of the country, and in quite another way in another section, in strong contrast with its ambiguous terms stands the clear outspoken and manly declaration upon which the Republican Union party is planted The Chicago platform declares that, "We denounce all forms of repudiation as a National crime, and the National honor requires the payment of all the public indebtedness in the utmost good faith to our creditors at home and abroad, not only according to the letter, but the spirit of the laws under which it was contracted"

That was a keen and vicious cut at poor Andy Johnson, when the New York Convention declared for "Reform of abuses in the Administration" Considering that Johnson has most shamefully abused his official trust for the benefit of the Democracy, the first line of the seventh resolution, exhibits the blackest ingratitude to a most devoted tool Poor Andy "kicked and cuffed by his enemies cuffed and kicked by his friends" where shall he turn? He is rapidly learning the hard lesson that every traitor has had to learn since the world stood

FROM IDAHO.

The World of the 22d says: An old French man, known as Joseph, living on Walla Walla Flat, made a desperate attempt upon his life at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by shooting himself through the body with a pistol. * * * In answer to the question why he attempted his life, the old man said he was aged, sick, and crippled up by rheumatism so that he couldn't work, had no money, was only a burden to his friends, and therefore wanted to die. He has been a temperate, hard working man, and was driven to the terrible deed by a morbid sense of his own helpless, impoverished condition. The hopes for the old gentleman to live are meagre, but we hope he will yet live to repent this unhappy act, and to be of use to himself and of benefit to others.

The Boise Democrat of the 22d says the thermometer has stood high up for the last few days, from 95° to 101° in the shade.

The Counter-Reaction.

[From the New York Herald, July 11th]

We are on the eve of a heated and excited political campaign. The nomination of Horatio Seymour, the embodiment of Copperheadism, for President of the United States by the Democratic Convention is an avowal of the determination of the Democracy to renounce none of their old heresies and prejudices, but to fight out the battle of the next election upon the issues embraced in the contests of the past six or seven years The popular demand for an obliteration of all the old political lines and a hearty union of the conservative elements against Radical misrule have been disregarded, the Democratic party has withdrawn itself within its own lines, and nothing is left to the people but to choose between the old sympathizers with secession and the men who have stood true to the Union and fought out the war against rebellion to a successful termination Under these circumstances there can be no question that the reaction which manifested itself last year in several of the Northern States, and especially in New York, against the revolutionary policy of Congress, will receive a serious check, and that, despite the heated appeals of party organs, the people of the Union will unite in electing to the chief office of the Republic the General who three years ago led their armies to victory over the Confederate forces, rather than the man who in the darkest hour of the country's peril denounced the war for the Union as a failure

So far as the State of New York is concerned we have no doubt that her fifty thousand majority cast last year for the Democratic ticket will be entirely wiped out next November and that the State will go about the same number the other way. It is possible that in the several Congressional districts where sound conservative men are nominated the vote may be cast against the Radicals, but there can be no question that the people will show at the ballot box that they have not forgotten the lessons of the war, and that they are not prepared to stultify themselves by refusing civic honors to the general who led their armies to victory, and bestowing them upon the peace politician who rendered himself notorious above all his confreres by the ingenuity and consistency with which he denounced the war as a failure Indeed, it is more than probable that the nomination of Seymour, forced upon New York by the disappointed and defeated Democracy of the Western States, may prove the means of bringing about an entire political revolution in our local as well as in our State politics The large majority by which General Grant will carry the State next November will be likely to take with it nearly all the Assembly districts, thus giving the Legislature in both branches, as well as the State Executive, to the Republicans In this event we may anticipate a general wiping out of the municipal departments now in the hands of the Tammany leaders, and a change of patronage that may effectually overcome for the next twenty five years the enormous majorities recently cast for the Democratic ring candidates, whoever they may be, in the great metropolis of the United States

It is understood that at the time of adjournment the Senate was considering the nomination of Alexander Cummings as Commissioner of Internal Revenue who would probably have been confirmed had there been more time

In the House there was a very thin attendance After transacting some minor business, Schenck reported a bill increasing the duties on imported copper Cress objected its consideration but finally withdrew his objection Banks began a course of filibustering tactics

Schenck at a quarter past ten, made a report from the conference Committee on the funding bill, remarking that the faction against the copper bill was so strong that he would not attempt to force it this session The Democrats filibustered to prevent the passage of the funding bill, but finally the main question was ordered and the conference report was agreed to, 102 to 32

Butler obtained leave to have his remarks printed, in reply to Senator Henderson's attack on him in the Senate last night

A bill was introduced and passed to relieve Nelson Tift, a member elect from Georgia, and Simon Corley, member elect from South Carolina, from political disabilities These members were then sworn in

The bill to increase the duties on copper was again taken up, and the question being on its passage, Banks demanded the ayes and nays Before the Clerk had finished calling the roll the hour of 12 o clock arrived and the Speaker announced a recess till September

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, July 27 Further advices from Japan to the 30th of June are received

All the foreign ministers had united in a protest against the revival by the Mikado of decrees against the Christians The civil war continued to rage with great violence. The troops of the Mikado were in possession of all the ports opened by the treaty to foreigners A brother of Stotsbashi, late Tycoon is at the head of the revolt against the spiritual Emperor He had a large army and was gradually advancing on Yeddo, where the party of the Tycoon are very strong There had been some fighting in the vicinity of Yeddo, but no decisive results It is thought the war between the two parties whose respective strength and resources appeared to be so evenly balanced would result in a division of the country into two independent empires, governed by the Mikado and the Tycoon.

The Convention in a Fog—A Grand Opportunity Lost.

[From the New York Herald, July 7th]

The country has for some months past looked forward with interest and anxiety to the assembling of the Democratic National Convention. It has been universally regarded as an event of no ordinary importance The powerful conservative reaction turned hopefully to the organized Democracy as the nucleus of a movement in the great Presidential struggle that should complete the work commenced last fall and give peace to the nation But it demanded a substantial reform—a final settlement of all the vexed questions of Copperheadism and niggerheadism, and a complete reorganization of the opposition on the basis of recognition of the war and of the great changes it had brought in its train Especially in New York did the splendid conservative majority of fifty thousand claim consideration, and from the fact that the Democratic leaders and their organs gave countenance and support to the Chase movement it was believed that they were aroused to the importance of the occasion But it seems that the popular cry was only echoed by them as a means of killing off Pendleton, and that while shouting for Chase they were, as usual preparing the way for the success of their own selfish intrigues It is acknowledged that New York, with her commanding influence, her large electoral vote, her great wealth and her magnificent revolution of 1867, had only to declare boldly in favor of the Chase movement from the start to control the action of the Convention and carry the conservative banner to victory Her delegates, actuated by personal views and quarreling among themselves, have sacrificed all their power and whatever the result may be, the responsibility lies at their doors

The truth is the New York Democracy have broken faith with the conservative masses, and have shown themselves to be without intelligence to grasp the situation or courage to vindicate their own position Beginning with Hoffman and continuing on through Seymour and Belmont down to poor Church they are all ignorant of the great lessons of the past eight years butting their empty heads against the idea that the war was unconstitutional, that [illegible] was unconstitutional, that Congress was unconstitutional and that there is nothing in perfect conformity with the Constitution except Jeff Davis General Lee poor Pierce and the old Democratic organization embracing Tammany Hall and the Albany Regency Therefore after playing fast and loose with Seymour have now taken up the expedient of nominating a country lawyer and Albany are intent on New York's choice for the Presidency in place of Chief Justice Chase Their platform, carried in the pocket of one of their candidates for Governor, is as weak and wishy washy as their candidate They do not recognize the fourteenth amendment as the people demanded they should nor do they properly denounce the barbarism brutality and degradation of negro political and social equality in the Southern States They are bold only in [illegible] and rascality and timid where courage is a virtue The result will be that after exposing their own weakness and cowardice they will be made parties to a platform as unmeaning, as that of the mongrel Chicago Convention and to a nomination that will be miserably beaten in every State in the Union Not a candidate they have named stands a chance of success, and the probability is that whatever their action may be Judge Chase will still be in the field, with a complete conservative ticket in every State They will thus not only be compelled to submit to the rule of Grant and the Radicals for four years to come but will lose the State spoils for which almost every one of them are playing In fact unless they nominate Chase they may as well abandon politics as a profession break up their organization, and make up their minds to go to work and earn an honest living during the rest of their days

Idaho Politics

There are three candidates for Congress in the field in Idaho The Union candidate is E J Butler Democratic candidate, J K Shafer Independent Democratic candidate J J May The election will take place on Monday, August 10th In the counties of Boise and Idaho there are independent candidates and people's tickets running, and there is more or less bolting among the Democrats in various parts of the territory May will carry off enough votes from Shafer to make the race between the latter and Butler pretty close and exciting and the result doubtful The contentions among leading Democratic politicians and their exposures of each other are daily making matters worse for them The people are getting rare glimpses of the manner in which the Democratic vulture, the office holders and jobbers have wheedled, cheated and robbed them.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 24, 1868

FOR THE OREGONIAN

I shall in this endeavor to give you some items concerning the Central Park its beauty and variety its gay people and fine horses, what they do and enjoy there,

New York is justly proud of its Central Park All its inhabitants talk of it with as much satisfaction and confidence as if there were no Hyde Park or Bois de Boulogne in the world They flood a plain common man from ye land of "Web Foot" with their conceit and arrogance, and I weary sometimes of Central Park morning, noon and night But when I do go up there and see its seven and eight hundred acres of varied beauty its walks and drives, its fountains and lakes, its bowers and summer houses, its Mall and Casino its thousands of elegantly dressed men, women and children, and particularly when hundreds of splendid turn outs dash by me, I am bound to confess all this boasting is not without cause You know we of Portland are growing enthusiastic on horses We love them as if they were human, and in Central Park there is such a display of splendid horses as can be seen no where else in America The Park has done more to develop horse flesh and to give New York a proper pride in it than all the other agencies on the continent Every wealthy Manhattanite runs to fine horses as a San Franciscan does to good dinners, a church bell [illegible] of wine or a pretty woman Men of means here think little of owning stables worth anywhere from $50,000 to $250,000 Cornelius Vanderbilt, Robert Bonner August Belmont and Leonard Jerome must have together at least $1 000 000 worth of blooded stock And how they do fast [illegible] do swing out their lanterns, Mountain Maid Dexters and Whalebones over the smooth drives of the Park It really does one's soul good to watch these splendid creatures scour along as if they spurned the earth and wanted wings to soar above it There are few pleasures superior to riding behind a 2 30 or 2 40 trotter A man forgets everything but the horse in front of him, and fancies that in the next sphere all good fellows will ride like R B Thompson S G Reed, J and H Green Sam Smith et id omne genus, drive through eternity without caring for any thing else Everybody who is anybody drives in the Park Horse flesh is the absorbing passion Women enjoy it as much as men. Go up there on these light, delicious afternoons and you will see Manhattan spread from fifty ninth to one hundred and twentieth street, There I have ridden with Groesbeck, the great Wall Street banker, and John Morissey, the ex pugilist and broker and member of Congress I have taken quite a fancy to him he has introduced me to all the prominent rail road men in New York, and though partially rough and uneducated, has a big heart in his big body He is a friend to the Pacific coast, and his desire is to visit Oregon and California You can bet on Morissey to help us with his vote on railroad matters.

You can also see Madame Restelle the famous abortionist, who has grown rich out of the sins of the great city, disporting herself in her showy carriage Irene McReady and Josephine Woods, the fashionable courtezans, who live in luxurious style, handle the ribbons gracefully Mrs August Belmont trots her handsome span nimbly to ward Croton Lake, Mrs James Gordon Bennett appears every day of the week in a different vehicle, and advertises her husband and the Herald by the admiration she excites I have ridden also with Charles O Conner and James T Brady, been introduced to "Miles O'Reilly," Mantown Marble, of the World (who gave a fine editorial on Oregon), Henry J Raymond, of the Times, Wm Cullen Bryant, the staid and venerable editor of the Evening Post who all were glad to hear of our young and progressive State

At the Park the poor as well as the wealthy the mechanic as well as the scholar, the milliner's apprentice as well as the hifalutin dame of Fifth Avenue, flock there for enjoyment and pure air At this season the Park looks its loveliest The human exodus from town has not yet begun, and in the interval between the 'Germans' and the seaside, fashionable people make for this charming breathing spot with their purples, silks and fine linen They have there weekly concerts, and every Saturday thirty to fifty thousand people of all sorts are found in the Park Girls go there to meet their lovers and married women, I am sorry to say, to meet theirs, while their unsuspecting husbands are down town toiling to meet the bills for diamonds and camel's hair shawls. Mrs Jones talks tenderly with that clever fellow who does the sparkling of the Sunday Mercury, leaves him after making an appointment for next evening and goes home to deceive poor Jones with a wanton's kiss This is a wicked world, particularly this New York part of it, but one forgets all that while he sips Veuve Clicquot, and orders out the Burnside mare.

The Park is improving every month It is quite a different thing they say from what it was a year ago I am not sure that before 1880 comes it won't be the finest pleasure ground on the globe It is said that two hundred thousand people and thirty thousand carriages visit it every week It is the only place I have struck East that makes me feel better and forget home. To drive an hour or two there, I feel I am in the country and yet in the city too

As in San Francisco, you meet all nationalities in the Park Germans, Frenchmen, Italians, Spaniards, Russians, Englishmen, even Greeks, Turks and Japanese It saves trouble and travel to pay a visit to that beautiful spot on the face of Manhattan. It is time well spent. It is a treat to the eye a satisfaction to the heart New York is too far away from Portland Oregon, to amount to a great deal, but still it has rich wine, fine horses, excellent dinners rare theatres, in which the actresses outstrip all others in the world, pretty women (for those who can pay for them) and above all a glorious Park Yours truly,

A. M LORYEA

Race With the Indians

The following letter, says the Boise Statesman though evidently not written for publication is handed to us by Governor Ballard with a view to giving the widest publicity to the fact that Indian war in Idaho has, for the present at least come to an end

CAMP HARNEY Oregon July 1st 1868

Gov Ballard Dear Sir I made a treaty yesterday with the concentrated rascality of all the Piute tribe They have been suing for peace for the last month and I met them here yesterday and told them that I was not anxious for peace or they had lied to me before and I did not know but that they would do so now that I had plenty of them here and in recollecting and if I killed them all off they would not lie to me again I have no doubt but this desire for peace, on their part is sincere from the fact that about half of their number have been killed and those that are left do not know what day their turn might come Ten of them have volunteered to help us fight the Pitt Rivers and their hostile Indians, and leave to day for Camp Warner for that purpose

The only thing I fear now is that white men will commit outrages on the Indians in retaliation If this thing can be controlled I feel satisfied that the bloody scenes of the last four years are at end and we will have a permanent peace with the Indians

It occurs to me that you can do more to warn [illegible] a renewal of hostilities than any other person I know of in the country that the newspapers in your Territory to interest themselves in the matter and enjoin upon all good citizens the necessity of refraining from retaliation—give the Indians a chance to show their hand in the peace side of the question and I feel satisfied that our troubles with them are over

Yours sincerely, CROOK

THE FAMILY OF THE LATE JOHN C CALHOUN. Edward A Pollard in a recent article upon the distinguished South Carolinian, states the following facts regarding the family of the deceased

At his death he left five sons and two daughters all grown up and of these only the oldest daughter is now living. Four sons died of consumption within a short period of each other, one daughter of fever and the oldest son who had attained middle age, died of apoplexy during the recent war Only the widow and daughter are now left in occupation of Fort Hill the old homestead embowered in trees near the banks of the Seneca, and formerly looking over many hundred acres of river land in the highest state of cultivation This residence once the seat of the most elegant hospitality and thronged with noble company has, of late been subjected by the sheriff's officer and the auctioneer, and many persons have learned with painful surprise that to satisfy a paltry debt of a few hundred dollars the library of the dead statesman was lately sold under the hammer, being the only property that could be offered by his poverty stricken family, without depriving themselves of the necessaries of life The house and land were not sold, as, happily by a military order of Gen Canby there is reserved from execution to every family in South Carolina a house and twenty acres of land attached to it The proceeds of the sale of the library, one of the choicest private collections of books in the South, were pitiful indeed Whole shelves of books were knocked down for from four to six dollars a shelf and then other personal property had to be sold to eke out the claims of the creditors.

SILK CULTURE.—In those elements which tend to make a country prosperous and wealthy we think we may ak truthfully at now say that Oregon is under agrea and perhaps to a greater extent than any other State in the Union. The productiveness of her soil her mineral wealth and her agricultural are already begun to attract the attention of capital and later and as soon as her resources in these respects become sufficiently known, we may expect to see our young State spring forward upon the highway of prosperity and business life with that vigor and rapidity which shall outstrip many of the older States. In addition to these objects of Oregon production there is perhaps no country in America either will better adapted to the culture of the article named in the head of this item, and we are glad to record the fact that one gentleman has exhibited the enterprise necessary to give the matter a trial in our State. We were yesterday shown about five hundred of the Bombyx Mori silk worms which have been reared by Dr Wm Koehler of this city. He procured the eggs from California some time ago and they were hatched on the 20th ult. At this time they are engaged in the spinning process and appear to be making a fine quality of silk. Dr Koehler has had some experience in silk culture in Europe and predicts the entire success of the enterprise in Oregon under favorable circumstances. Since the larvæ were hatched there has not one of the worms died—an evidence of the adaptation of this climate greatly in their favor as Dr K informs us that from 25 to 50 per cent was not more than an average loss in European silk growing countries. With ordinary good fortune the Doctor will raise several thousand next year from those he now has and with the necessary facilities for feeding the worms the raising of silk can be made a source of great profit to the people of Oregon. The tree upon the leaves of which the silk worm feeds, is the genus morus of which there are two varieties the morus multicaulus being the one most commonly raised for feeding silk worms and in addition to this purpose it makes a fine shade tree thriving well in this latitude. Let those who are planting shade trees make a note of this.

PIONEERS STILL ALIVE.—The Pioneers of this city went to Vancouver yesterday on the Wilson G Hunt to play a match game of base ball with the Washingtons of that place. The Pioneers maintained their claim as champions, beating the Washingtons by twenty two runs. J C. Work, Esq, of the Spartans, acted as Umpire, and gave entire satisfaction to all parties. Scorers—for Pioneers, O B Upton; for Washingtons, F Reacher. The following is the score as furnished us

Washingtons	3	6	3	1	3	0	1	3	10	—32

The Young Pioneers also played the first game of a match with the Young Washingtons beating them by eight runs. Everything passed off very pleasantly, the vanquished submitting gracefully, and the victors wearing the laurels magnanimously.

HEALTH OF THE CITY.—During the early part and middle of the present month Portland and the vicinity was visited by a species of cholera morbus, which in many cases, was quite severe, and in some, especially so as to children attacked by it fatal but at the present the health of the city is quite good we believe and if no epidemic is brought by those who are coming here from time to time from other parts, we hope the people will be spared any such drawback upon our name as having a wholesome climate, will befall us this season. With proper care the health of the inhabitants of Portland may be guarded against any epidemic which might be brought among us or engendered in our midst.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON JUDGE.—On yesterday the following proceedings were had in this Court

B F Smith vs Abernethy, Clark & Co; civil action to recover balance on a promissory note case submitted to jury, Page and Thayer for plaintiff, Strong for defendant.

J. G Chapman vs P Raleigh motion to remand ex contract, leave granted to plaintiff to prove failure to the undertaking on part of defendant C A Dolph for plaintiff, Strong for defendant and appellant.

NICHOLSON PAVEMENT.—The Common Council propose to extend the Nicholson pavement on Front street from Morrison up to Taylor. When this is done it is hoped the property owners in that part of the city will not be burdened by being compelled to change the character of the improvement for a long time. It would have been much better and more economical had this street been improved by putting down the Nicholson instead of the rough macadamizing which has lasted such a short time.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.—The citizens of East Portland some time ago voted to levy a special tax for the purpose of building a school house, the old one being too small to accommodate the wants of that thriving community. The work upon the new building is, according to contract, to be completed by the first of August. It is situated near the old school house, and when finished will supply a need long felt, and be an ornament to the growing town of East Portland.

CROPS.—By a gentleman from the interior, we learn that the health of the people is generally good, the crops thriving, and the weather delightful to behold. The haying season is about over and farmers are making preparations for the harvest now at hand. All kinds of grain promise an abundant yield. Oregon is destined to become a great and wealthy member of this Union.

—His Excellency Gov. Woods called on us last evening, having returned to this city yesterday from Clatsop Beach, whither he went some two weeks since for the benefit of his health, which we regret to learn is still not improved. He and family are stopping at the Hotel and will go to the Capital this morning.

THE WARRIOR.—This boat, lately purchased by Mr J C. Ainsworth, is to be repaired at an early day and put upon the trade somewhere down the Columbia. She was bought by Mr K at auction for something over four hundred dollars. The sale was made by the United States authorities for a violation of the maritime law.

PORTLAND STAGES.—Mr L. A. Davis informs us that the mail stage now runs through to Monticello. The roads have been improved over the mountain and above Pumpkin Ridge, making the road as good as ever, and with some new stages just put on the line the route can be traveled very comfortably.—Transcript.

FINED.—Joe Miller having created a great noise in the vicinity of the What Cheer House night before last was summoned in the name of the city before Recorder Hoffman, who duly reminded him of his duty by a sentence of five days in the jail, whither he was conveyed to sober off.

REPAIRS.—Washington street is being repaired by overlaying it with stone and mending the cross walks. It will cost as much in a few years to keep the Macadam laid streets in repair as it would to lay down the Nicolson Pavement in the first place, and this don't wear out or get out of fix.

A GOOD JOB.—The painting and sanding of M Mitt & Showbridge's new building on Front street was done by Messrs McDougall & Clements and is certainly a fine piece of work. It shows that these gentlemen are workmen of superior skill in their line of business.

HUNTERS.—A party of hunters returned from the mountains yesterday bringing with them a quantity of game which they report as being plenty in the regions visited by them.

WILLAMETTE FREIGHTS.—By the Senator 100 sks flour, 2 hlf bbls eggs, 2 boxes do. By the Wendt 4 bales wool, 13 castings. By the Alert 605 sks wheat, 250 sks of flour, 29 sks feed, 4 bbls fruit, 5 boxes.

EVERYBODY seems to provide himself with a Fourth of July Hat since this hot weather has set in which keeps Meussdorffer very busy making them.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

PORTLAND, Ogn, July 28, 1868

As there are a great many people sick and dying of a disease called Cholera Morbus, I would call attention to the Chinese Doctor Jim. Having eaten green fruit I was taken very bad with the above disease and lay insensible for four hours when Dr Jim was called, and in 20 minutes after he gave me the first dose of medicine I was easy and asleep. I believe that there is no other doctor on the Pacific coast that could have relieved me as quick as Dr Jim did.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price on its quality of a manufacturer's and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior products as for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fever. Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water, invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache General Debility, Nervousness Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant, but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.
The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient, as well as upon the liver it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and excretive organs.
Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.
As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.
Last but not least it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day

Given Not Lent

[illegible]

Friends [illegible] take [illegible]
Unvisited over the sea,
We tell me [illegible] stand
With a single [illegible]
Hold up to be [illegible]

Why [illegible] ask me [illegible] say
What a father and in their [illegible]
With the bright [illegible] locks put away
Out of [illegible] kiss in the lay
Where the violets [illegible]

Shall I speak [illegible]
[illegible] woman [illegible] for relief?
Oh children —I never [illegible]
Yet my arms [illegible]
And Love knows the secret of Grief

"God lent him and takes him" you sigh;
—Nay there let me break with your pain,
God's generous in giving say I—
And the thing which he gives I deny
That he ever can take back again

He gives what he gives I appeal
To all who bear babes—in the hour
When the veil of the body we feel
Rent round us,—while torments reveal
The motherhood advent [illegible] power

And the babe cries!—has each [illegible] known
By apocalypse (God being there
Full in nature) the child is our own,
Life of life, love of love in air
Through all changes all times everywhere

He [illegible] and forever [illegible]
O father —O mother look back
To the first [illegible] assurance to give
Means with God not to tempt or deceive
With a cup thrust in Benjamin's sack

He lends not but gives to the end,
As he loves to the end [illegible]
That he draws back a gift, comprehend
'Tis to add to it rather —amend
And finish it up to your dream

So look up friend I you, who indeed
Have possessed in your house a sweet piece
Of the Heaven men strive for must need
Be more earnest than others are—speed
Where they loiter, persist where they cease

You know how one angel smiles there.
Then courage. 'Tis easy for you
To be drawn by a single gold hair
Of that curl, from earth's storm and despair
To the safe place above us Adieu.

The Wickedest Man in New York —A Strange Story

Mr. Oliver Dyer has been studying underground life in New York to some purpose. Under the head of "The Shady Side of Metropolitan Life," he has begun a series of articles in Packard's Monthly, the first of which, entitled "The Wickedest Man in New York," is singularly interesting. The individual on whom Mr. Dyer bestows this undesirable distinction keeps a low dance house in Water [illegible].

This fact would not of itself justify Mr Dyer's epithet, but there are peculiarities connected with it which make good the odious distinction. The man is worth between seventy and one hundred thousand dollars, so that the need of money can not be pleaded in his behalf, poor as such a plea would be under any circumstances. Moreover, he is an educated man, was formerly a school teacher, and is stated to have once been a preacher. He has three brothers who are clergymen. By his education, [illegible] and independent pecuniary position he would seem removed from every inducement to follow his present iniquitous business.

If it is strange that such a man should keep a dance house, his method of keeping it is still more inexplicable. He reads the Bible to his dance house girls, and his favorite papers are the New York Independent and Observer. He also takes the Little Wanderer's Friend, and is much [illegible] in mission work. Still more astonishing are his relations with his children, whom he loves warmly while consigning them to a life of infamy. He has a little five-year old boy of whom he is especially proud.

Into the dance house of this anomalous monster, Mr. Dyer, with two or three companions, descended, [illegible] thirteen ugly-looking girls in the [illegible] musicians in the orchestra, and [illegible] paying attention to an equal [illegible] tyrant. The "wickedest man" was in his glory, and [illegible] on the girls to do their best. Soon he sent up for his prodigy of a boy, whom his father took up and said "Now, [illegible], you are writers, philosophers and [illegible]; but I'll show you that my baby knows as much as any of you. He's h—l on [illegible] praying and fighting."

[illegible] the young child in his [illegible], with astonishing results, [illegible] him [illegible] for a [illegible] and a [illegible], all of which were [illegible] with the utmost promptitud. The visitors were invited to join in the dance, but refused, when he asked them to give a song, in which the girls took part, singing with great [illegible]. Having got thus far, Mr. Dyer afterwards [illegible] a prayer, but the "wickedest man" [illegible].

"Well, [illegible], I can't do that. You know any man must have regard to his profession [illegible] opinion of his [illegible]. What with my Observer and Independent, and you fellows coming here and singing camp meeting hymns, I am already looked upon in the neighborhood [illegible] rather loose and unsound, and if, on top of that, I should let you hold a prayer meeting here, I should lose what little character I've got."

"On a subsequent occasion, however, a prayer [illegible], and the dance girls were so affected [illegible] they begged Mr. Arnold, of the Howard Mission, to take them to where they could earn an honest living. Such is the strange story of the "wickedest man."

Proud Gratitude.—A half military anecdote is in circulation. General Changarnier, returning home alone late one evening, was attacked by an armed [illegible]. The great strength of the General rendered him indifferent to such incidents; he seized the [illegible] by the throat and threatened to strangle him. On examining the captive more closely, [illegible] recognized him as a personage with whom he had [illegible] "Why, you rascal, you are the same man who robbed my tent in Algeria of 600 francs in gold!" "Ah, General, but if you [illegible]. They had written to me [illegible] that my poor mother was [illegible] ill, and I wanted to send her some assistance. But I shall repay you, General, have some pity on me; give me my liberty this time, and I [illegible] the rest of my life in repentance." The General granted the prayer, let the fellow go [illegible]. A long time [illegible] he received a box containing 500 [illegible] and the following letter: "This restitution, General, proves to you that a good action is never lost. To pay you this sum, that I [illegible] myself to return to you, I have [illegible] to beat out the brains of two [illegible], to force the secretaries and break in the doors of three inhabited country houses. You see, General, that a benefit is never thrown away."—Paris Letter.

Let the Children Sleep.—We earnestly advise that all who think a great deal, who have to work hard, to take all the sleep they can get without [illegible]. We caution parents, particularly not to allow their children to be waked up of mornings; let nature wake them up, she will not do it [illegible]; but have a care that they go to bed at an early hour; let it be early until it be found that they wake up themselves in full time to dress for breakfast. Being waked up early, and allowed to engage in difficult or any studies late, and just before retiring, has given many a beautiful and promising child the brain fever, or determined [illegible] ailments to the production of water on the brain. Let parents make every possible effort to get their children to go to sleep in a pleasant humor. Never scold or give lectures, or in any way wound a child's feelings as it goes to bed. Let all banish business and every worldly care at bedtime, and let sleep come to a mind at peace with God and all the world.

Difference Between the Sexes.—An exchange says: When a rakish youth goes astray all the church gather to bring him back to the paths of virtue. Gentleness and kindness are lavished upon him to innocence and peace. No one would suspect he had sinned. But when a poor confiding girl is betrayed, she receives the brand of society and is thenceforth driven from the ways of virtue. The betrayer is honored, respected and esteemed—there is no peace for her this side of the grave. Society has no voice of forgiveness. These are earthly mortalities unknown to heaven. There is a deep wrong in them, and fearful are the consequences.

"A Singular Case.—A short time since, a gentleman living in Grafton, Vt being at the point of death, deeded all his property to his son—an only child—a hale and hearty young man. But in a few hours the son had died, leaving the sick father to inherit the property. The father died the next morning, before he could make a will, leaving the property to go to his relatives.

Misuse of a Name.—We read again in the papers a call for a convention of "working men." Who are working men? Are they the clerks who labor 14 hours per day, or the masons, who insist upon not a minute over eight hours? Are they the writers on newspapers whose work is never done, or the plasterers, who begin at eight and stop at five? Are they the farm laborers up before daylight and not done till after dark, or the bricklayers and carpenters who think ten hours too long a day. To call any association of laborers workingmen is at least ambiguous. In this country almost everybody is a workingman, and any working man who is industrious and economical may expect to become an employer of others if he follows his trade and has good health. It is, therefore in a double sense a mistake to use the name of workingman to designate a part and really a small part, of those who earn their own living.

If a burnt child dreads the fire why does a person who has been singed by Cupid's torch so often have a lingering regard for the old flame?

Young Man. Have you a brain as big as a mustard seed? Have you as much use for the future as a three weeks' old kitten? If you have, [illegible] well the recipe which is warranted if strictly observed to keep you for [illegible] that's short. Drink three glasses of ale and two of whiskey every day, smoke a fifteen cent cigar after each meal, take at least [illegible] a week, wear a [illegible] your hair and keep [illegible]. That'll do the business for you sure. [illegible] Chronicle

A [illegible] nugget was found in a gulch in Nevada a few weeks ago, the value of which was estimated at nearly $650. Some of the [illegible] suspected it had been placed there by [illegible] with a view to a swindle.

To Clean a Brass Clock.—Boil it whole. The water used should be pure rain water. Dry it on a warm stove to prevent subsequent rusting. This plan saves trouble and works well when the only trouble is accumulated dirt or thickened oil.

A character which combines the love of enjoyment with the love of duty and the ability to perform it, is the one whose unfolding gives the greatest promise of perfection.

It is as wrong to judge of a man's character from that of his acquaintances as it is to judge a woman's from the choice she makes of a husband.

PORTLAND, OREGON, July 14, 1868

P. D Moore, Esq., Sir—

The undersigned having witnessed the exhibition in this city yesterday of your "Extinguisher," or Portable Self Acting Fire Engine, would state that the first experiment of a fire kindled outside of the building erected in the rear of the Central Public School House, made by using shavings, staves, tar, &c, was effectually extinguished with one machine in a short time, that the second experiment of a fire in the inside of the building made by using shavings, kerosene, staves and dry stuff was also promptly extinguished by the use of one machine in less than three minutes. The third experiment was left to the control of the Fire Department, under the direction of the Chief Engineer, and the building was fired inside and outside, and when the fire was well under way the Chief Engineer gave the order to "extinguish" and the fire was effectually put out in about six minutes. A brisk breeze was blowing at the time and we pronounce the experiment successful and satisfactory. We are satisfied that the "EXTINGUISHER" is very valuable for what it [illegible], namely, the prompt extinguishment of fires in their earlier stages, and being portable self acting and always ready at a moment's notice, would, if generally introduced, save much valuable property from destruction, and we regard it as a valuable auxiliary to the Fire Department. They are indispensable in those localities where no steam or other fire engine is in use, and we recommend their use generally in dwellings, stores, hotels, and public buildings.

On Board "Alaska," Portland, July 13 1868

P. D. Moore, Esq.—Sir: I have just returned from witnessing the operations of your "Extinguisher," or Portable Self-Acting Fire Engine, and confess I was both surprised and highly pleased with its success.

I have no doubt whatever of its efficiency and adaptation to putting out fires in their earlier stages, however combustible the materials may be that are burning. Its action on a flame is really magical. They should be in every house of any value, or which contains valuable property, as well as on board of vessels. No one can estimate the additional security they give to both life and property. You will please furnish me two of the No 2 size immediately, for the Alaska, as I sail for Honolulu to-morrow morning. Very respectfully,

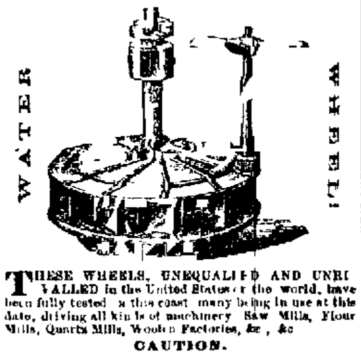
AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE



THESE WHEELS, UNEQUALED AND UNRIVALED in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, many being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery. Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories, &c., &c

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby give notice that the so-called "Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel" is a direct infringement and copy of the "James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel" and its manufacture and use is hereby prohibited. Any person or persons making, using, constructing or vending said Water Wheels make themselves liable to heavy damages and penalties. Parties interested will take notice, for I shall prosecute said infringements to the utmost extent of the law.

That all may know I mean what I say and am not playing bluff, I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States.

WASHINGTON, D C, April 17, 1868

"Mr. A Myers—In accordance with your request, we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel's patents. In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets precisely as Leffel does and in this he clearly infringes. The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition to those used by Leffel, does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement at all. He has no right to use those two tiers of buckets whether alone or with a third or any other number of tiers added. It is a clear infringement. Respectfully yours,
DODGE & MUNN

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on our Patents, whether it is the maker, user, buyer or seller. Every infringement, whether our claims are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted.

THESE WHEELS ARE MADE OF ALL SIZES, are adapted to all heads high and low, and are warranted superior to anything ever yet invented for the purpose. It received a medal at the great Mechanics' Fair at Lowell, Mass as eminently adapted to the purpose which it serves.

The following testimonials will be read with interest by all who have occasion to use water

LOS GATOS, SANTA CLARA CO, CALIFORNIA, December 10, 1867.

A M Swain—Dear Sir,—The following tests have been made by us at the dates given. Our overshot wheels were iron rim, iron braced, iron shafts, and as good wheels as we have ever seen. Buckets 7ft long, rim 12 inches deep and 20ft. in diameter.

They would not furnish sufficient power to run two runs of machinery on one wheel when buckets were filled with water, hence the tests, 1 run on each overshot wheel. All our tests were made by measuring the depth of water in a flume and the distances floating stick would travel in it per minute. All the flour made is our XXX brand using over [illegible] bushels of wheat per bbl.

Feby 1st, 1867 —Water 13 inches deep in flume 4ft. wide running 108ft per minute, drives one run on overshot wheel and all mill machinery to make 3 bbls flour per hour— [illegible] cubic feet per minute.

Feby 7th—Water 17 inches deep 4ft wide running 180ft per minute drives 2 runs [illegible] wheels, all mill machinery to make 4 bbls flour per hour— 1020 cubic feet used.

Nov 15th, 1866 —Water 9 inches deep, 4ft wide running 156ft per minute, drives 1 run on Stevenson Jonval Turbines under 56ft head to make 3 bbls flour per hour and all mill machinery using 468 cubic feet per minute.

Aug 13th, 1867 —Water 8 inches deep, 4ft wide running 132ft per minute drives 1 run on Swain wheel under 56ft head, and all mill machinery to make 4½ bbls of flour per hour using 352 cubic feet of water per minute.

Aug 20th —Water 6½ inches deep, 4ft wide, running 132ft per minute, drives 1 run on Swain wheel under 56ft head and all mill machinery except wheat cleaners to make 3 bbls flour per hour, making 286 cubic feet of water used per minute.

Nov 21—Water 9½ inches deep 4ft wide, running 156ft per minute, drives 2 runs on Swain wheel under 56ft head and all mill machinery except wheat cleaners making 4 bbls flour per hour on one stone and grinding [illegible] of barley per hour on the other runs, grinding 11,721 lbs of barley in a straight run of less than six hours—using 441 cubic feet of water per minute.

Sept 27th —Water 7 inches deep 4ft wide running 172ft per minute, drives 1 run on Leffel wheel under 56ft head to make 3 bbls flour per hour and all mill machinery except wheat cleaners, making 401 cubic feet of water used.

Your wheel (12 inch) will run 775 to 800 turns per minute and will stand water [illegible] and even faster if we dare. Truly yours
ROGERS & HARRISON,

LOS GATOS FLOUR MILLS,
SANTA CLARA CO, CALIFORNIA
April 30th 1868

A M Swain—Dear Sir—We have now been using your 12 inch wheel with bucket 1¼ inches deep, for one year in one flour mill under 56 feet head. We have made very careful tests with overshot wheels and find your wheel fully equals the best overshot ever with part of gate and excels it with full gate. It will run our mill machinery and one run of stones at full motion with the gate one fifth open and use water with good economy. We have tested it beside the Tyler, Stevenson and Leffel turbines drawing water from the same pipe and find it superior to them in simplicity of gate fixtures, steadiness of [illegible] and greater economy of water. After twenty years experience in water wheels and the expenditure of [illegible] in different wheels we will not take any other wheel [illegible] the Swain perfect built [illegible] paying [illegible] at the highest rates. We consider it cheap and [illegible] for perfect work on a water wheel that will last for years for a manufacturer, the best [illegible].

We have great [illegible] with the Leffel wheel gate in leaking and breaking, and have [illegible] the gate several times in the six months we have [illegible] while your gate has never failed to act [illegible] and has never bothered us for a moment. Truly yours

Established [illegible] for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases [illegible] Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated [illegible] successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands [illegible] male and female, are there who are suffering [illegible] miserable existence from the effects of [illegible] from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces [illegible] broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this sad situation then can [illegible] parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible diseases [illegible] that they are cured [illegible] Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of the afflicted, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] skill in curing all diseases in a few days [illegible] upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful to make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice or [illegible] is practiced by the youth of both sexes [illegible] producing, with unerring [illegible] the following train of [illegible] medical men [illegible] the eyes, pain in the head [illegible] the ringing of [illegible] about the [illegible] weakness of the [illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. [illegible] not obtained should apply immediately to [illegible] in person or by letter and have [illegible] new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will [illegible] satisfactorily to him that he was not [illegible] either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful diseases should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use. For Ten Dollars sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trade. Some are blacksmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets for as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

DR. J. C. YOUNG,

Medical and Surgical INSTITUTE.

 CONSULTATION, IN ALL CASES, FREE

 CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.

 IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRESY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, established by Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, and which have done so much to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of medical aid, the certainty of cure and the utmost confidence.

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity give assurance of proper and delicate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has marked the career of the Institute in the seventeen years of its existence.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it his duty to call especial attention to that terrible scourge,

SEMINAL WEAKNESS,

That is sapping with its insidiousness the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has earned so enviable a reputation.

READ! READ

I am aware that by dwelling upon so [illegible] a subject as the decay of manly vigor through the vital principle of life, the ignorant may [illegible], but the desire to point out to those who [illegible] anguish and decay, the true cause of their [illegible] great an incentive to be forced into abeyance. [illegible] the terrible disease of Seminal Weakness [illegible] one but the practical specialist who devotes his treatment can tell, but its presence can be [illegible] the most inexperienced by noting the following symptoms, Weakness of the back and limbs; [illegible] feelings, loss of muscular power, nervousness, cold feet or hands, accompanied by hot [illegible] of consumption, short breath; flushes of the [illegible] aversion to society, confusion of the mind, loss of [illegible] nightly [illegible]—loss; colorless; slight diarrhea [illegible] least excitement; trembling; palpitation of the [illegible] regular appetite; variable temper, etc.

YOUNG MAN, if you experience any of the symptoms enumerated above, [illegible] present is the golden moment in which you may health and happiness. You may feel [illegible] if you have ever practiced the vice of self [illegible] insidious disease, you have the seeds of [illegible] system, and their undermining influence will, sooner or later, dash the fair edifice of your [illegible] to the ground, leaving you a helpless, abject [illegible] disease that declares itself at once. [illegible] est danger, for while the pati[ent] is being [illegible] affection of the Heart, Lungs, [illegible] tions, he sinks into a [illegible] debility that [illegible] to the list of the vic[tims] of the terrible [illegible]

See in the bent form and languishing [illegible] the victim of the fascinating vice! Mark the [illegible] destructive complaint in the hollow cheek [illegible]

Drowsiness is one of the premonitory symptoms; first it is easily shaken off, but it grows a great disinclination to pursue his regular [illegible] mind becomes apprehensive, and restless [illegible] days of depression.

It is the nature of the complaint to [illegible] changes that leave the poor victim but little [illegible] convey. In a single instant it may wither hopes and blast your honest aspirations.

Marriage is sought by a natural impulse [illegible] This is an error of the first magnitude, for [illegible] ten, unprepared for the exigencies of the [illegible] denly fails, and he finds himself in a deplorable [illegible] from which there is but the slightest hope [illegible] Or if the marriage should result in [illegible] ny distorted, decrepid, and degenerate. [illegible] ble to both sexes, whether married or single, [illegible] times of life.

Do not delay if you feel any of the symptoms [illegible] rible complaint, or if your acts have been [illegible] to them, but by instant application secure to [illegible] only hope of health and happiness. The Doctor [illegible] mercury or other deleterious drugs—cures, [illegible] time always guaranteed, and full and p[illegible] stored.

The afflicted are assured of every con[fidence].

PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH VENEREAL.

During the seventeen years since the establishment of the Institute, the number of cases of Venereal [illegible] been treated show a record unsurpassed by any in the world, and the success that has invariably [illegible] the course of treatment,

Without Mercury or other Deleterious Drugs,

Shows conclusively the use of them to be not only uncalled for but actually dangerous for it is a [illegible] established medical principle that these po[isons] by entering the blood, ruin the constitution and life.

The Doctor effects a cure in recent cases, in a few days, and finds no difficulty in curing those of long [standing] without submitting the patient to such treatment as will draw upon him the slightest suspicion or oblige him to neglect his business, whether in-doors or out. [illegible] need not be changed. Cures always [illegible] no pay required.

IMPORTANT TO FEMALES.

When a female is in trouble or afflicted with disease, and requires medical or surgical assistance, the inquiry should be: Where is there a physician competent to administer relief and whose respectable standing in society will recommend him to the confidence of the community? The Doctor understanding how imperatively necessary these requirements are feels called upon to interpose, and by calling the attention of the afflicted to the fact that he has been a Professor of Obstetrics and Female Diseases for twenty years and is fully qualified to administer in all cases, both medically and surgically, not in a superficial manner, but in as thorough a manner as years of study and practice—both in hospitals and private families—can make, to save them from the hands of the unqualified, unscrupulous or designing. Therefore families can rely upon him as upon a father. All in affliction can find in him one who can feel and sympathize with and befriend them in trouble—one in whose secrecy the utmost confidence can be placed—consultation by letter or otherwise, free. Cures guaranteed in all weakness and trouble incidental to the sex. Private apartments are provided when desired, where can be had all the advantages of unremitted attention of the Doctor, and the most skillful and faithful nurses.

TO CORRESPONDENTS —Persons either male or female, residing in the interior are often deterred from consulting the Doctor because they cannot spare the time, nor incur the expense of a visit to the city. To such he would say that a plain statement of the symptoms and information bearing upon the complaint will enable him to prescribe for them as well as if they were personally at hand. None need have any false delicacy about writing, no matter what the nature of their complaint, as the communication will be read by no one except the Doctor and will be treated with the strictest confidence and will be either be returned or destroyed.

Consultation Free.
